

Rough Endoplasmic Reticulum

Rough Endoplasmic Reticulum

- consists of stacks of flattened spaces lined with a membrane

⇒ surface appears rough ⇒ when viewed under electron microscope ⇒ due to presence of small round structures called ribosomes attached on its outer surface.

⇒ outer surface of RER ⇒ is consistent with nuclear membrane.

Function:

⇒ transports proteins made by the Golgi body for secretion out of the cell.

