

Displacement-Distance Graph

illustration of wave on a rope is an equivalent of a graph of displacement against the distance from the source Graph describes the displacement of all particles relative to their rest position $\Rightarrow$ at a particular instant in time

From displacement distance graph $\Rightarrow$ we can deduce the displacement of each point, amplitude, crest and troughs, and wavelength of the wave.
